

Antiracism: An Afro-Indigenous Perspective

Chenae Bullock

Owner of Moskehtu Consulting

Friday, Mar. 5, 2021
12:00-1:00 p.m. MST
via Zoom

Registration Link:

<https://arizona.zoom.us/meeting/register/tZwvfGopzMjEtMd5iqx4p6X95UXMHs4Ximt>

Join us as we learn about impediments to racial equity from an afro-Indigenous perspective. Chenae Bullock, an Indigenous perspective historian and cultural practitioner, will provide context by sharing the history of her people, examine their forced cultural and societal assimilation, and discuss how the resilience of Indigenous communities has survived and how we can better support Black and Indigenous voices and communities.

BIOGRAPHY

Moskehtu Consulting is Indigenous owned and operated. It was founded by Chenae Bullock, an enrolled Shinnecock Indian Nation Tribal Member and descendant of the Montauk Tribe in Long Island, New York. She is also African American. Chenae is an Indigenous perspective historian, cultural practitioner, and preservationist. She has worked at many accredited Indigenous museums such as the Shinnecock Indian Museum and Cultural Center, Plimoth Plantation, and Mashantucket Pequot Museum and Research Center.

She established her company due to the lack of cultural competency occurring in the governmental sectors, corporate sectors, and in individual lives. As an Indigenous person who not only has the academic background regarding Indigenous people's position when it comes to history and environmental issues, she also lives it every day. Her aim has been to start a company that can consult with clients, to create stewardships in these areas that affect each and every one of us.